RECESSIONAL

The audience is requested to remain in place until the graduates have withdrawn.

Guests are invited to enjoy light refreshments on the first, second, or third floor of the Armory.

STUDENT AWARDS

THE DISSERTATION EXCELLENCE AWARD is presented by the Faculty for distinguished doctoral student research.

THE ANNA C. MAXWELL AWARD is presented to a graduate of the adult-gerontology, family, or pediatric primary care nurse practitioner program who exhibits compassion, competence, and commitment to the provision of highest quality primary care.

THE ANNE PENLAND AWARD is presented to an outstanding graduate of the nurse anesthesia or adult-gerontology acute care nurse practitioner program who best demonstrates qualities of academic excellence, clinical proficiency, and empathy for patients.

THE MARY DICKEY LINDSAY '45 AWARD is given to a nurse midwifery graduate who best exemplifies leadership qualities that will promote midwifery diversity and access to midwifery care for all women.

THE MARY BLEECKER SIMMONS '60 AWARD is presented to the graduate who demonstrates compassion and devotion to the mental health needs of patients.

THE FACULTY AWARD FOR PROFESSIONAL EXCELLENCE IN A SUBSPECIALTY is given to a student who best exemplifies professional competence, capacity for leadership, and compassion for patients.

THE MARY MASTERSON GERMAIN '64 AWARD is presented to a graduate of the advanced clinical management and leadership program who demonstrates academic excellence, capacity for leadership, and dedication to the highest possible care for patients and families.

THE MARGARET ELIOT AWARD is presented to a graduating nursing student who best demonstrates professional competence, capacity for leadership, and wholehearted compassion for patients.

THE ALPHA ZETA CHAPTER OF SIGMA, the international honor society for nursing, honors the graduating student who best exemplifies the principles of Sigma: leadership, scholarship, and community service.

THE CAMPBELL AWARD is presented by the Columbia Alumni Association (CAA) to a graduating student at each School who shows exceptional leadership and Columbia spirit as exemplified by Bill Campbell, '62CC, '64TC, Chair Emeritus, University Trustees, and CAA co-founder.

DISTINCTION CORDS AND STOLES

A distinction cord is a token consisting of twisted cords with tassels on either end awarded to recognize student achievements. This includes honors or membership in honorary societies that recognize outstanding academic performance or leadership. A stole is worn around a graduate's neck and often represents membership in a community. More than one cord or stole may be worn at the same time and indicate the below honors:

Orchid and White Cord: The Alpha Zeta Chapter of Sigma Honor Society Member

Blue with Gold Trim Stole: Pathways to Leadership & Advancement in Nursing Scholar

White Stole: Global Clinical Experience Participant

HISTORY OF THE COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY SCHOOL OF NURSING PIN

The school pin was first presented to graduates of the classes of 1894, 1895, and 1896 on November 25, 1896, by Frederick Sturges Sr., president of the Training School for Nurses Committee. Members of the Sturges family were longstanding School benefactors. In 1896 the School was part of the Presbyterian Hospital, and at that time hospitals and those who worked in them were viewed as social philanthropists with religious leanings. Presbyterian Hospital was viewed as a place that provided quality care for everyone.

The front face of the pin consists of a white cross background—a symbol of mercy, help, and caring—and a laurel wreath, symbolic of the “victory” of having completed a rigorous program in nursing education. The motto “Salus Generis Humani,” meaning safety of the human race and the health of humanity, is engraved on a ribbon under the wreath, and in the center of the pin is a red stone, perhaps symbolic of life blood—that of the graduate and those for whom she/he cares.

Until 1975, the initials “PH,” for Presbyterian Hospital, were attached to the stone. Beginning with the Class of 1976, the Columbia crown became the emblem on the stone, formally recognizing the long connection of the School with Columbia University and symbolizing the successful transition from a hospital-based apprenticeship model for nursing education to a professional one based within an institution of higher learning.

The tradition of the pin was begun by the School's founder, Anna Caroline Maxwell (who seldom wore a cap but always wore her pin). The current “tradition” is to present the pin to graduates entering the nursing profession as registered nurses. Recipients of special awards of distinction receive a blue enameled star to recognize their award, which is affixed to the pin by a gold chain.
